InvisiBrake wins best new product award

Roadmaster's InvisiBrake was awarded the Best New Product of 2011 at this year's NTP Distribution show.

InvisiBrake is a fully-automatic, progressive towed vehicle supplemental braking system that, as the name implies, is hidden once installed — it's so compact it can be mounted under most seats.

InvisiBrake is designed for simplicity and ease of use — there's nothing to put in or take out of the vehicle to tow or to drive. "We set out to make the ultimate no-hassle braking system," said David Robinson, director of marketing at Roadmaster. "And we're thrilled with the success we've seen since InvisiBrake was introduced last June."

InvisiBrake also constantly charges the battery during towing and comes with a two stage motorhome monitor.
